What is Lampworking?

Lampworking is the ancient art of melting glass on a hot torch to make beads or sculpting into other forms.

About your workshop

In this workshop you will learn to melt Borosilicate glass rods at the torch and sculpt into Seahorse forms. This is a great follow on from the Lampworked Seaweed workshop.
If you have not attended the Seaweed workshop, depending on your skill level and speed, we may get the opportunity to create a small piece of seaweed that the seahorse can be attached to Alternatively a small piece of glass seaweed will be provided to finish your piece.

The workshop includes:

- Health & Safety information and all the necessary protective equipment required to wear while at the torch
- Tuition for using the main torch and the smaller Smiths Little Torch
- All of the materials and tools required to create your Seahorse
- Kiln annealing of all pieces made on the day
- Tea, coffee and biscuits throughout the day plus light lunch (we are a 5 star food hygiene rated catering venue too!)

What will I make?

Techniques covered and number of pieces made will depend on your experience and speed
Most people will make at least two seahorses and a small piece of seaweed.

Important
Please wear closed-toe shoes as you will be working in a glass studio. Also natural fibre clothing if possible.
